

My Dear Friends and Colleagues:

We are especially delighted and proud to publish the Spring 2008 issue of the Journal of Sustainable Development in Africa (JSDA) because of the topics which are covered by our contributors. The topics vary in scope and depth and they are particularly engaging and interrogative in nature. They are informative and instructive and are bound to expand our knowledge of Africa's development matters. I invite you to discuss the ideas with your friends and colleagues and to bring the issues addressed in JSDA to the attention of those who might find our work to be useful. We have been getting requests from book editors who wish to republish our articles. This is clearly an indication that our work is noteworthy in global affairs. Please continue to send your comment to us and thank you for your continued support.

Valentine U. James, Ph.D.; CES; CAQS

Editor-in-Chief