

Mrs. O. A. Odiase – Alegimenlen

Mr. O. A. Odiase – Alegimenlen is a Senior Lecturer and acting Head of the Department of Jurisprudence and International Law at the University of Benin in Nigeria.

Dr. Augustine Ikein

Dr. Augustine Ikein is an Associate Professor of Economics at Delaware State University. He is a former Special Advisor on Planning and Infrastructure, Bayelsa State of Nigeria. He is the author of several books and numerous articles.

Mr. Nene Ernest Khalema

Nene Ernest Khalema is a Ph. D. student at the University of Alberta, Canada and currently teaches sociology at Athabasca University' Center for Global and Social Analysis and is the Research Coordinator for the Alberta Heart Health Project, Center for Health Promotion Studies, University of Alberta. His areas of interest lie in the international/global education, African “development”, African Diapsora, critical multiculturalism, anti-racism activism, global environmentalism, Sociology of healthcare reform, ethnomethodology, and social epidemiology.

Botswiri Oupa Tsheko, B.A, M.A, PhD.

Botswiri Oupa Tsheko is Lecturer in Economics at the University of Botswana. He is a graduate of the Universities of Botswana, Manitoba and Sheffield. His main research interest is in International trade policy Analysis, Public policy and CGE modeling. He has developed a CGE model for Botswana which is calibrated to the 1993/94 Social Accounting Matrix for Botswana. He currently teaches International trade and Finance (undergraduate) and Economic Policy Analysis at Master's level at the University of Botswana. This Course is aimed at introducing students to the many and diversified techniques available for assisting policy analysts and decision-makers in sub-Saharan Africa at the various stages of the policy progress.

Mr. Martin Andreas Wienecke

Martin Andreas Wienecke is a final year doctoral candidate at the University of Namibia and the Manager Research at the Habitat Research & Development Centre in Windhoek. Current research activities focuses on the issues of vanishing traditional knowledge and skills, philosophical and ethical questions relating to sustainability, and the design and use of alternative technologies and materials in the development of urban and rural settlements, especially in arid areas. Furthermore, as a consultant, the author is involved in the establishment of a community based tourism project in Warmbad, southern Namibia.